Abstract: As a common language of the world, English is highly beneficial to communicate on international platform. On an international level cricket is one of the most entertaining sport that people all over the world enjoy. To get the access on the international level of cricket, players need to learn English as a tool of interaction. Now cricket is representing our country by our players. Because of our reputation of our country they should learn English Language. When Bangladeshi players go to abroad for playing their domestic league they face many problems. The major problem is Language. The players who know English they can easily survive this problems but who do not know English language they face a lot of problems. For Example, Sakib Al Hasan knows English language so he can easily communicate everyone in the other hand Mastafijur Rahman does not know English Language so, he faces a lot of problems outside the country.

Key Words: Introduction, Background, Objective, Significance, Conclusion.

ACRONYMS: Amplify, Mandatory, Walks of Life.

Executive summary:

English is the rest of the world's "second language". While Chinese Mandarin and Spanish are the mother tongues of more people overall, most people in the world choose to learn some English after their native language. In fact, one in five people on the planet speak or understand at least a little bit of English.

This makes English one of the most useful languages you can learn. After all, you can't learn all 6,500 languages in the world, but at least you will be able to communicate with people from all different countries using English.

Cricket players have played in many countries. It is very important for them for learning English language. They should take many Basic English Language courses for developing their English Skill and career.

INTRODUCTION

English is now not a language, it is a broad medium of communication among individuals. When a cricketer goes to the international field, then it should be mandatory for him to know the Basic English Language. Because many-a-times it is impossible to have an interpreter with him all the time. On the other hand, English has become a global language so it is required for him to speak in English for the convenience of the listeners, local countrymen and the world who would be watching the match. They are not the English scholars but yet they can grab the least possible English.

Players are come from many different place in our country. All players are not educated that's why they need to learn English Language.

As a player they need to communicate many kinds of player in the world. If they want to develop their communication skill they need to learn English Language.

I have worked on this study. It is very important for player's career. Not only career but also reputation of our country. Bangladeshi players represent our country so it is mandatory to all players for learning Basic English Language willingly.

So, it is necessary for the players to learn English and develop their career to communicate with the rest of world.

Use of the technology In the Report: I have worked with News papers, social media, Video, Biography analysis, Media, Press conference, Speech.

Background of The Study

In English, formal language is used in situations that are more serious, for example when we are in a job interview or emailing our university professor. It can also be used when we are speaking to someone we do not know very well and want to make sure sound respectful.

Informal language is used in more relaxed, everyday situations. Of course, this includes conversations with friends, family and other people you know well.

Unlike many other languages, though, most English speakers tend to use informal language with people they've just met, too.

In fact, if you start a conversation with someone on the train or speak to someone working in a shop, they will usually find it strange if you use very formal language!

But what's the difference between them?

Formal English uses longer, full sentences and perfect grammar. Often, there are lots of sub-clauses to explain details, and few unnecessary words.

For example, if you were describing a trip you went on in a formal context such as an essay, you might say something like:

On the other hand, if you were telling the same story to a friend, you would be more relaxed about our grammar. We might use short or broken sentences, everyday phrases or slang, and plenty of delaying, qualifying or correcting expressions.

We use formal English much more often when we're writing and use informal English much more when we're speaking, but that isn't always the case. Cricket players really need Learn informal language .It is really help for developing their career.

Objective of the Study

I have found out players lacking in English language .They take extra class in basic learning English language but that is not enough for them. If they want to build up their career long then they should learn English language. There is no alternative way to learn English language.

Scope of the Study

The players who know English can develop their career easily. For example, Sakib Al Hasan, Tamim

Iqbal, Mahamudullah Riad, Mushfiqur Rahim, Masrafee Bin Mortuza.

Significance of the Impact Study

It is not compulsory that a cricketer needs to know about how to speak in English. For example Bangladeshi players often hesitate while dealing in English but they are very excellent in their field cricket.

While on the other hand speaking English increases player communication on a whole high level, Players can communicate with opposition, umpires, media and others. English is one of the most used language in this world.

Even outside of countries like the U.S. and the U.K., many people can speak and understand English.

And if I include people who speak it as a second language, an estimated 1 billion people worldwide speak English! On top of this, 67 countries have English as their official language and there are 27 countries that have English as their secondary official language

Many foreign coaches come to Bangladesh for giving their feedback to Bangladeshi players but many players do not understand their speeches because players do not know English language well. Although interpreters help them but the main feedback don't come out properly.

After finishing cricket career many players want to develop their coaching career so they need to learn English language. They take course in abroad without knowing English language they do not built up their career. It is very important for learning English language all players for developing their cricket career.

LITERATURE REVIEW

Jenny Joy, Program Officer at Caritas India (2018-present) “It is very rightly said that one learns more from experience and surroundings rather from books and notes. Cricketers justify this statement rightly. Especially when we speak about cricket team there are a lot of them who in their initial cricketing career were unable to speak in English but today are fluent in it.”

“English is an important skill to have if you are looking to start a career in athletics, even if you don't live in an English-speaking country. Considering how often athletes are required to travel for sporting events and competitions, it is helpful to know a language that allows them to communicate with reporters and other international teammates. So how can English specifically benefit your career in sports and your life-long dream to be a football player or an Olympic athlete?"

Different researchers talk about the learning English language and many researchers talk about the career development on their papers. But I really cannot find out my topic .There is insufficient information about my topic.
